

Teacher: Quāles sunt Cicero et Caesar?

Student: Cicero et Caesar sunt magnī virī.

Teacher: Suntne Cicero et Caesar amīcī?

Student: Cicero et Caesar nōn sunt amīcī.

Teacher: Dē quibus rēbus cōgitāre solet Caesar?

Student: Caesar dē bellis cōgitāre solet.

Teacher: Quid Cicero semper cūrat?

Student: Cicero patriam semper cūrat.

Teacher: Quid amant Caesar et Cicero?

Student: Caesar et Cicero litterās amant.

Teacher: Ā quibus Caesar et Cicero necantur?

Student: Caesar et Cicero ab inimicīs necantur.

PAGE 94

Standards 1.2, 4.1

Oral Exercise 4

ORAL EXERCISE 4

This exercise may be used after the Latin dialogue has been presented.

The teacher may ask the following questions about the dialogue, which the students will have read and studied with the help of the teacher. In their answers, the students should use, as far as possible, the words in the dialogue, changing the endings only where appropriate for a correct answer. The teacher should use one of the CPOs to put the following interrogative words/phrases with meanings on view:

quid – what?

quem – whom/what?

ubi – where?

-ne (an interrogative particle added to the end of the first word of a question, used to indicate the sentence is a question)

1. Teacher: Cūr probātiunculam hodiē subīre dēbent discipulī?

Student: Quia scientiam memoriā servāre dēbent.

2. Teacher: Litterāsne Latīnās amat Christīna?

Student: Christīna litterās Latīnās amat.

3. Teacher: Quem locum discere dēbet Christīna?

Student: Christīna locum Caesaris discere dēbet.

4. Teacher: Suntne in locō Caesaris multa verba?

Student: In locō Caesaris sunt multa verba.

5. Teacher: Solentne multa verba memoriā servāre Christīna et amīcī?

Student: Christīna et amīcī nōn solent multa verba memoriā servāre.

6. Teacher: Quid iam memoriā tenet Christīna?

Student: Locum Caesaris iam memoriā tenet Christīna.

7. Teacher: Suntne discipulī parātī?

Student: Discipulī sunt parātī.

8. Teacher: Ubi scribere dēbent discipulī?

Student: In chartīs vacuīs scribere dēbent discipulī.